Key Factors
PayPal, Stripe, Wise, Adyen all competing for cross-border share. Low switching costs for customers. Price pressure on transaction fees. Winner-take-most dynamics in specific corridors.
High regulatory barriers (licensing in 190 countries). Significant capital requirements. But blockchain/crypto startups can bypass traditional rails. Big Tech (Apple Pay, Google Pay) could enter.
Large marketplace platforms have significant bargaining power (30-35% of volume). Individual freelancers/SMBs have low power. Corporate clients negotiate custom rates.
Banking partners and payment rails are commoditised. Multiple options for correspondent banking. Cloud infrastructure widely available. Talent market is competitive but manageable.
Cryptocurrency/stablecoin payments bypass traditional rails entirely. Central Bank Digital Currencies (CBDCs) could disintermediate fintech. Direct bank-to-bank real-time payment systems (PIX in Brazil, UPI in India) growing rapidly.
